

Environmental-context contribution is assessed by PERMUTING the environmental/calendar channels (spatially shared permutation; thermal channels preserved) and measuring the change in discrimination. Context contributes in SCS, is null in GBR, and is null-to-negative in CARIB (permutation does not degrade the frozen model's CARIB ranking).